

I'm not robot

Continue

Classified ads websites template

Using site templates as a starting point for your site may be welcomed by web designers and developers, but if you need your site quickly and don't have the skills or time to create your own HTML, don't despair. There are a lot of decent templates out there, many of them both handsome and very functional. Here we've rounded up some options that can open your eyes to the possibilities that web templates have to offer – at least when they're created by people who know what they're doing. You can also check out our guides to the best hosting services and the best website builders right now. These web templates are designed for Bootstrap, HTML5, Adobe Muse, WordPress, Tumblr, Jekyll, Perch, SASS, Statamic and Ghost. At various price points (including some for free), there should be a template that is ideal for your next site project.

01. DashCore (WordPress) DashCore is a super-customizable (Image Credit: DashCore) DashCore is a lightweight and customizable WordPress theme. It's very responsive and has built-in demos to help you get started. The price of $59 gets decent support too, with 24/7 email support and clear step-by-step documentation. DashCore is aimed at start-ups, developers, saas, marketing and communities. An HTML version is also available. Zeen is for magazines, but it has a number of ecom options, too (Image Credit: Zeen) Zeen is a news and wordpress wordpress theme that costs $59. To do this, you'll get dark mode options for visitors, voice search capabilities, and an approach to building your site from different demos. There are many add-ons here, including the ability to set your own gradients and compatibility with services like MailChimp.
03. Wunderkind (Bootstrap) Wunderkind is a versatile template with lots of ultra smooth and elegant options with a clean, modern layout that is extremely easy to customize, Wunderkind is a versatile template that's a great way to make your brand shine. It features full-screen touch sliders, video backgrounds and smooth, powerful parallax, as well as many gallery options. It costs $19, is based on the latest Bootstrap and is designed to be developer friendly.
04. TheNa (WordPress) Why scroll vertically when you can go horizontally? Horizontal site scrolling is always a good way for people to pay attention to your site, and TheNa is a fantastic template to try if it's the style you want to play with. It comes with three portfolio template styles with lots of customization options, as well as two blog template styles and a shortcode template with 18 modules for creating other types of pages. It costs $42.05. Tersus (Muse) Tersus offers some great animation options To create an elegant and professional portfolio, take a look at Tersus for Adobe Muse CC (download Creative Cloud here). For $25 will get a collection of 14 ready-made, high-quality responsive template designs, many of which you must have such as parallax scrolling, full-screen video, and dynamic slideshows. There are hundreds of fonts to choose from via typekit, as well as integration with Wow.js and Animate.css to create smooth reveal.
06. Animations. Rhythm (HTML5) Get tons of features and choice for not making a lot of money with Rhythm Rhythm is a fully flexible form template for single- and multi-page sites, and at just $17 it gives you tons of features and choice for your money. This Bootstrap-powered HTML5 template includes more than 50 prebuilt demo sites to work with, as well as more than 40 portfolio pages, with easy-to-customize backgrounds, color schemes and content, as well as parallax sections and wonderfully smooth animation.
07. Composer (WordPress) Composer developers are eager to hear your ideas for composer's new features not exactly cheap at $59, but you'll get a lot of use out of it. It spoils your choice from off, with over 50 ready-made demo sites to go to work, covering almost any web design capability, and it makes it easy to create your own layouts from scratch. It offers ultra-responsive layouts and WooCommerce integration, comes with several free premium plugins, and developers are always eager to receive suggestions for new projects and features.
08. Flaunt (Muse) Flaunt's hover effects will make your Muse site come to life if you're eager for cool hover effects, but using Adobe Muse and finding it a little hard to implement, Flaunt can be the answer to your problems. In addition to a simple and fully responsive template, it avoids limiting the effect of activating Muse with custom CSS. With over 50 slick hover effects for both images and text to choose from, you'll be able to create standout Muse sites without difficulty, and for as little as $16 Flaunt is a bargain to buy, too.
09. Definity's modular design makes it easy to play with layouts A multipurpose single and multi-page template by Ocarine Themes, Definity is built on Bootstrap 3 and comes crammed with stuff. It's 100 percent responsive with cool features like video backgrounds, activation effects, and parallax scrolling, and its modular design makes it easy to move page sections until you hit the layout. Priced at just $29, Definity offers a variety of website templates and store layouts.
10. Enfold (WordPress) Enfold comes with plenty of demos to try out Designed to be the most user-friendly WordPress theme ever created, Enfold is a versatile and fully responsive theme suitable for business sites, online stores (with WooCommerce support) and wallets. Its drag-and-drop template wizard is just a thing to create your own layout, but it also comes with a stack of ready-made demos that will inspire you. A regular license will cost $59, which includes future and six-month support.
11. Porto (HTML5) Porto is available on different platforms The basic version of HTML5 Porto will cost only $17 and offers a stack of home page styles as well as unlimited header layouts and a style switch that allows you to customize your site on the fly. It is also available in wordpress, drupal and magento flavors, with an additional admin version so you can manage your site much more efficiently with swish dashboard and all widgets and charts you can eat.
12. Clone (WordPress) Clone is easy to use and fully responsive There are six reasons why you will love Maple, say its creators: its bold and unique design; the fact that it is responsive and ready for volleyball; the way it has light and dark styles; its parallax header background; its support for multiple sidebar; and how easy it is to use. With 15 hand combinations and lots of features and widgets, for $49 gives you a value of money.
13. BeTheme (HTML5) May not be all zingers, but you can't go wrong with choosing BeTheme (Image Credit: BeTheme) Why settle for one topic when you can have over 450? Described as the most complete, comprehensive and flexible HTML template for businesses or personal websites, BeTheme is simply clogged with things. Fully responsive and retina ready, with all the parallax and smooth scrolling features you'd expect, it's an absolute monster and the biggest headache that will make you try to choose from a huge selection of prebuilt sites. For $17, you can't go wrong.
14. NOHO (Muse) Designed for creatives, NOHO is perfect for wallets (Image Credit: NOHO) Designed for creative professionals, NOHO is built to be easy to edit in Adobe Muse, so you can launch your agency site or portfolio in record time. Its templates are available in desktop, tablet, mobile, and multi-layout flavors, and you'll find many features like image sliders, parallax scrolling, and CSS rollover effects. The results are clean and eye-catching, and it's yours for just $22.15. Google (WordPress) Is probably described as the fastest and lightest WordPress theme in the world ever, and its latest version has been completely reviewed and rewritten to deliver instant sites that won't thwart your CPU or drain your battery. It uses GPU rendering to ensure smooth parallax scrolling, offers adaptive image resolution to ensure that your photos look great regardless of your devices, and comes with a huge amount of templates in case you don't have time to create your own pages with a drag-and-drop interface. It's not cheap for $59, but the results are worth it.
16. Ness (WordPress) Image focused website template (Image Credit: Ness) Many modern themes focus on sharp minimalism and type, but Ness is much more interested in photos, aimed at people who want to quickly get a photo blog or and works. Priced at $39, it's retina-ready and mobile-friendly, and in use feels like a high-end photo diary app.
17. Bootstrap (HTML5) Bootstrap by default look pretty good in itself We know that Bootstrap is really a framework, not a template. This is true, but because The section presents even the default Bootstrap look pretty good if you have an idea for a project that uses a lot of rich images and backgrounds. These are just a few tweaks to the beautiful minimal creation - and it's even faster if you get acquainted with the free Bootswatch themes. Next: More top-notch site templates